CANDY MAKERS VOICE PROTEST

John Jenkins, of Charleroi, together with his chief, Pure Food Commissioner James Foust, and the rest of the latter's agents, were made defendants in a suit in equity filed in the United States District court in Pittsburg on Tuesday by candy manufacturers. The manufacturers allege that Commissioner Foust and his agents have inaugurated a crusade against certain candy manufacturers for the purpose of creating a sensation instead of in the interest of the public health. The action of the commissioner is said to create public distrust and prove injurious to the business interests of the Pennsylvania manufacturers.

Read the book and then come and see the pictures. One of the marvels of the age in moving picture art. The entire story in 3 big reels as dramatized from Thackeray's novel of the same name by Montayne Perry. The plot of this picture is so complicated that interest is at fever heat until almost the last scene is shown. Becky Sharp and her dual nature with the disastrous effects it creates is well worth seeing. 77 2t

REFUSES TO ADMIT PRISONERS TO JAIL

The Charleroi Mail says: "Acting on the advice of his attorney, Sheriff John C. Murphy refused to admit three persons committed to jail on charges of trespassing on the property of the B. and O. railroad. The three men were loitering around the local B. and O. station Detective J. M. Pounds arrested them Thursday and took them before Justice J. F. Carmichael, who, in accordance with the provisions of the law governing such cases committed the three to jail, after taking their pleas of guilty. Detective Pounds took the three men to the county bastile, but Sheriff Murphy, who has taken counsel on the matter of receiving such prisoners, refused them admission."

This is exactly what the District attorneys office of Westmoreland county prosecuted Sheriff John E. Shields for, and what Judge A. D. McConnell gave him a prison sentence for.

Star Theatre

As a special attraction the management of the Star theatre offers to its patrons, the Brahm girls in an excellent musical act called "An Evening at Home." These four young ladies have something new to offer in the way of music and it is well worth hearing

Cliff B. Nelson, the Jolly Jester, in a monologue act and Ward and Ray in a refined singing and talking act, complete the bill. See the latest photo plays as shown on our glass curtain.

The Bijou

Photo night at the Bijou. Three of the best films obtainable are to be shown and this assures the patrons of this popular theatre a full hour's entertainment. "How Sir Andrew Lost His Voet," a beautiful Edison comedy with a well worked out plot and "A Reformed Santa Claus," man interest in Vitagraph story that cannot help but please. LECTURE SUNDAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be a steropticon lecture at the Baptist church on next Sunday evening, January 7. The subject of the lecture is "The Boys and Girls of Indiana" The lecture is one of the best in setting forth the conditions of the child in India." The lecture is one of the best in setting forth the conditions of the child in India, the country where child labor predominates. The work of the missionary in connection with this problem will be brought out in the views. Come and see how the boys and girls have to live in other countries.

COUNCIL MEETING TONIGHT AND THE MUNICIPAL TANGLE WILL LIKELY BE SETTLED

Monessen is not the only town where insurgency crept in at the organization of council for the new year. New Kensington and Monongahela are two other places where the members did not all agree with regard to the running of the public affairs. At Monongahela there is a fight on with the engineering department and when some of his bills were presented, they were turned down by the finance committee. Another bill which was refused was one from a tailor for mending a policeman's over coat it was decded that the taxpayers had no right to keep the policemen's buttons sewed on.

In Monessen matters are moving along more smoothly and the differences of opinion among the members will no doubt be adjusted before a blot is cast on the several officers whose positions are in doubt. Tonight the regular monthly meeting will be held, at which time a complete election of officers will take place or there will be another abrupt ending. Some members are determined to change the entire system and they believe their position is justified by a public demand and so certain are they that they seem reticient to relent while the "regulars" claim that it is neither necessary to consolidate offices or discharge present employes in order to bring about the required results.

There is one great satisfaction the general public has and that is the opinion which prevails unanimously that something different is needed. As the engineering department is running at present it is following an old custom to pay a salary for the borough work and permit the engineer to give much of his time and attention to outside work. It is this custom that is to be done away with and men who are working for the borough will be paid a salary sufficient to warrant the giving of their entire time to the city and the receipts which accrue from such offices will be turned into the public treasury and the men will at all times be under the supervision of the city council.

It is understood that the street department is not running satisfactory to the public which is more of a criticism upon the system than on the men. There is no aim at individuals, but there is fault with the system and the little hitch now in council is bound to bring about the desired results. It is said the police department is to undergo some renevation and a system established whereby there will be a record of the doings of every officer before the council at every meeting. Another change that is contemplated is the establishing of an ordinance officer whose duty it will be to enforce the laws of the city. The town has never had an ordinance officer nor building inspector and it is believed that these matters should be included in the duties of an ordinance officer. Many of these changes contemplated are the result of public sentiment that has been growing for some time and it is to be hoped that at tonight's meeting there will be an adjustment and that council will then move along harmoniously.

Mrs. John S. Duvall is coaching a play for the Presbyterian congregation and the performance will be put on at the local opera house the last of this month or the first of next.

NOTHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

Many people claim there is nothing new under the sun, but this statement has been proven untrue in the last year. The French people as a race are, and have been the leaders in many of the world's lines of industry and literature; only in the past year has one of their noted writers developed a drama upon new and startling lines, causing the managers in whose theatres it has played to place the "Standing room Only" sign on the front of their places of amusement nightly. This wonderful drama of Mother Love written by Alexander Bisson and entitled "Madame X" will be seen in this city on Thursday, January 18, at the Monessen opera house, when it will be demonstrated to the auditors the fallacy of that old adage.

FAMED BOWLER WILL BE HERE TO BOWL

Elks Install New Lodge At Donora

With a charter membership of 155 the Donora Lodge of B. P. O. E. was installed last night and yesterday afternoon by F. J. Schrader, deputy grand exalted ruler of this district and the members of the Charleroi and Monessen lodges. There were present sitting Elks from along the valley and Pittsburg, Allegheny and Uniontown. The installation took place in classes three in the afternoon and three in the evening, after which an election and then the installation of officers. Immediately following this a vaudeville show was given by members of the order, followed by a sumptuous banquet in the First National Bank Hall, where covers were laid for over 300.

The number given the new lodge is 1265 and it is one of the first installed this year. During the ceremonies in the afternoon a telegram congratulating the boys on the installation was received from Gov. John K. Tener who is a member of the Charleroi branch.

The Air Gun

The burgess of New Kensington, has issued an order to the police, to confiscate all air guns found in the hands of boys of that borough. Many youngsters of that town received air guns as Christmas presents, and the promiscuous shooting that has followed resulted in injury to two boys, one of whom was shot between the eye, and the other on the chin by the lead pellets.

Evidently this burgess believes the law in such cases should be enforced. Air guns are outlawed, ths provision having been made by the Legislature because of the many injuries that resulted from the indiscriminate use of this small rifle. Many people have been permanently disabled because of injury from one of these guns in the hands of the small boy, who, when one is in his posses takes delight in "hunting" long the streets or in the alleys for "game" of any kind.

Such acts as those of the New Kensnigton burgess would do much to put the air rifle out of busness most effectively.

SERMONETTES IN PLACE OF CHURCH

The services at the Presbyterian church Sabbath Evening proved to be an exceptionally interesting meeting. The customary sermon by the pastor was dispensed with and reports from the delegates to the peace conference held under the auspices of the Pittsburg chamber of commerce in the Fort Pitt Hotel, Dec. 24th, were heard instead. The pastor explained the two treaties now pending between U. S. A. and France and England. After making clear the difference between the majority and minority report, Mr. A. W. Ferren gave his report, which dealt with some of the salient points of the speakers at the peace banquet. This was followed by Mr. E. C. Sattley, who incorporated in his report many quotations from the speakers, especially those from the son of the celebrated Charles Dickens. Both reports were optimistic on the peace subject. The benefits to be obtained, were forcibly argued in the reports. The Pastor in closing referred to the possiblities of war, its ravages and the duty of the American citizen to familiarize himself with what is deemed the grandest possible achievement of this age. The pastor referred to the dispute between the president and ex president Roosevelt, and declared what he believed was the duty of each American who appreciated their citizenship, was to know and express their opinions on the pending treaties. The greatness of the present movement was voiced by E. C. Sattley, when he quoted Dickens, "That in the future, as men looked back over the monuments marking the men of renown of the past ages, one monument rising above all others would be dedicated to Wm. H. Taft and that the symbolic word "PEACE" would be inscribed thereon, marking its distinguished greatness." Another quotation from Dickens voiced the sentiment in favor of peace. "Reflect upon your present blessings, of which every man has many, not upon your past misfortunes, of which most men have some." The prosperity of our country is due to peace, let peace be world wide and all men could rejoice in many blessings, was the impressions left by the speakers of the evening.

Providing for Fannie

When any of Mrs. Sandler's girlhood friends first saw Fannie they were certain to exclaim in startled tones, "Oh, is this your daughter?" Their unconscious accent on "this" made Mrs. Sandler set her even white teeth in anguish of spirit.

Each time this sort of thing happened the harshness of her fate was borne in upon her anew. Having been a decidedly pretty girl herself, it certainly was hard to be afflicted with a daughter who was so unattractive. For wherever Fannie should have been broad she was narrow. Her nose was too long and so was her waist and the length of her from hip to heel was nothing short of appalling. She was indisputably lank and her hair was lank and dull and she was generally colorless.

Nothing looked well on Fannie, so she dressed in anything that was handy. She did not object, because she herself had long ago given up the struggle. She had the faculty of turning the most stylish garment into a caricature, and as for hats, a perfectly airy, coquettish piece of headgear was instantly resolved into a hopeless bedraggled joke when it was perched upon her head. Sometimes she rebelled furiously against her lot in life, but she usually bore herself with grim fortitude. There was nothing to it—Fannie was hopeless.

After years of this kind of woe it was a good deal amazing when Cousin Kate Givler, arriving for a short stay on her way abroad, regarded Fannie, whom she had last seen as a baby, without any start disclosing a positive shock. Cousin Kate seemed to take

"Just as Lank and Odd as Ever."

Fannie as a matter of course and when Fannie left the room she exploded at Mrs Sandler. "Why on earth do you dress that girl so hideously?"

Mrs Sandler tried to bristle with resentment and then she collapsed. She saw that she must enlighten her cousin. "She doesn't look well in anything," moaned the despairing mother "She never has and she never will Nothing becomes her. And if it did it wouldn't be any use, because she's so awkward and—homely!"

"Indeed!" remarked Cousin Kate She screwed up her eyes as though studying something in the distance. Then she announced calmly that she thought she'd take Fannie along with her to Europe.

All the while they were gone Mrs. Sandler and every one else who knew Fannie remained in a state of wonder in regard to Cousin Kate's singular state of mind.

When Cousin Kate and Fannie got home a short time ago Mrs. Sandler felt that she needed an introduction and a chart to the young person who fell upon her neck. That young person was just as lank and long and odd as ever, but it was with a difference.

After she had got her breath and really studied her daughter Mrs. Sandler saw that Fannie's garb if anything accentuated her absurd lankness.

Fannie, too, seemed to have an entirely new way of lopping into chairs and draping herself across tables, quite as though she had about as much backbone as a piece of twine. Her mother could not keep her fascinated eyes off Fannie.

"I—I can't stop looking at her," she stammered in bewilderment to Cousin Kate.

"Of course not," was the response. "That's the idea! Neither can any one else! Everybody has been perfectly crazy about Fannie ever since I gave her a talking to and bought her some things such as she ought to wear. If a girl can't be pretty she's an idiot if she can't be unique!"

"By the way, there's a young man coming on here in a day or two who's going to marry Fannie if he can wring consent from the parents of such a raging beauty and priceless treasure as he thinks she is! He's young and he's rich and he has no bad habits.

"Now let me tell you, Elma Sandler, you must marry Fannie off quick before the present fashions change!"

This Monessen citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief —of lasting benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive. It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Burns Wadsworth, 270 Donner avenue, Monessen, Pa., says: "I was in poor health for some time and suffered almost constantly from backache. I was subject to chills and dizzy spells. Knowing that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for kidney complaint, I procured a supply from the Hirsch Drug Co. Their use helped me from the first and before long I was cured. I am now enjoying good health and my kidneys do not bother me in the least" (From statement given Oct 2, 1907.)

A PERMANENT CURE

Mrs. Wadsworth was interviewed on Nov. 9, 1909 and she said: "The cure effected by Doan's Kidney Pills in my case has been permanent. I have recommended this remedy to my friends on several occasions and all who have used it, speak highly of the results received.

:abeth's Peril

A whoop of mingled rage, terror and pain penetrated to the upper regions and heralded the coming of Elizabeth.

Elizabeth's mother, for whom the sound, familiar though it was, has never been robbed of its terrors, ran out of her bedroom and half way down the stairs to meet her waiting offspring. She sank down upon one of the steps and instantly a pair of frantic arms were locked about her knees and a Dutch cropped head and a huge pink hair ribbon were buried in her lap.

Elizabeth's mother gathered into her protecting arms the head, the pink bows and as much as possible of the plump, pathetically heaving body.

"What's the matter with mother's baby?" she asked tenderly.

"Wow, wow, wow!" answered Elizabeth.

Elizabeth's mother clasped her little daughter closer to her. "Are you hurt, darling?" she queried, anxiously.

"Wow, wow, wow!" The pink bows vibrated violently, but indefinitely.

"Elizabeth, dear," said her mother, trying to uncover the hidden face, "you must stop crying and tell me what's the matter. Are you hurt?"

The head merely burrowed deeper into the friendly lap. "It's—it's my tooth," gasped Elizabeth, finally.

"Your tooth, sweetheart?" exclaimed her mother. 'Does it ache?'

No, I don't guess so." The answer was a wail that was something between a sob and a sniffle.

"... 's the matter?" Elizabeth's mother was growing slightly peevish under the strain. Elizabeth, you've got to stop howling and tell me." She raised the tear-stained face and held it firmly between her two hands.

"Now, tell me," she said, authoritatively. "If your tooth doesn't ache, what are you shrieking about?"

There was a fresh outburst of tears, but with the flood came the words: "It's—oh, it's coming out!"

Elizabeth's mother gave a little sigh of relief. She kissed the top of the anguished head. "That's nothing to cry about, precious," she said, comfortingly. 'You'll soon have a nice new one in its place."

"Oh, I don't mind the tooth,' wailed Elizabeth, 'but Tom said—oh, dear! Oh, dear me! We was all out playin'——'

'We were out playing,' corrected Elizabeth's mother, gently.

Yessum We was all out playin' and Tom he come along—"

"Tom came along, baby," Elizabeth's mother said, patiently.

"Yessum And Tom he come along and he said—" The remainder of the story was lost in another whoop of woe

Elizabeth's mother rose and led her small daughter to the bathroom and bathed her face thoroughly.

After that she took the very woebegone infant into the mother's own room and sat down in the big rocking chair with Elizabeth in her lap and rocked her until the sobs had ceased. When the much-to-be-desired result had been gained she went to her dresser and took out a paper bag of soft molasses candy. Elizabeth's eyes glistened.

"Now," said Elizabeth's mother, "we are going to have a perfectly beautiful treat, just we two."

Fairly reeking joy, Elizabeth buried her more or less uncertain little tooth in the piece of candy. Then she removed the candy hastily, gave it one look and immediately set up a shriek that made the plaster nearly start from the walls.

"Wow, wow, wow!" She took up the cry where she had dropped it a short time before 'Wow, wow, wow! My tooth's gone, and Tom said—"

The shriek ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Two large tear drops were arrested midway down her fat cheeks and a smile, beginning in a very small way, grew and grew until it threatened to bisect her face She ran to the mirror and regarded intently the gap left by the departed tooth.

"Why, mother—Tom thaid, he thaid that when my tooth came out—he thaid that he knew a girl who looked just like me, with little poppy eyes and pink hair ribbonth, and when her tooth came—that when my tooth came out—that when her tooth wath gone—that I wouldn't know how to do anything but just whithle! He thaid that when that girl's tooth that looked like me wath gone she couldn't ever talk again. And, mother, it wathn't tho! It kind o' hitheth when I do it, but I can talk! I can talk jutht ath much ath ever!"

Elizabeth's mother fled hastily into the next room and buried her head in a thick bath robe which was hanging in the corner of the closet.

"The eternal feminine!" she choked. "How her father would enjoy it if I should tell him! But I don't believe I'll tell him. I think this is a case in which only a mother can thoroughly sympathize."

The Cause.

"How do you account for those half dozen houses of yours in the block going off so fast?"

"Because I put them on the six best sellers."

IGOROTS ARE GOOD WORKERS

Native Carpenters and Stone Masons Help Build Church at Bontoc.

Bontoc in particular and the Igorot country in general will soon have its first permanent Christian church, for the building planned by the Belgian missionary fathers is nearing completion, according to advices brought by Father Sepulchre, a member of the mission.

The new church is a substantial stone structure and will cost 30,000 pesos. It is notable for the fact that Igorot mechanics have participated in the work of construction as carpenters, masons, plumbers.

Four years ago Rev. Father Jurgens began the building, since when —with the assistance of Father Sepulchre, four Belgian sisters and one brother as a teaching staff—a remarkable record has been made among the Igorots, who are described by the fathers as very industrious and docile.

Some 250 Igorot boys and girls have been instructed in the ordinary school grades and additional instruction has been given in industrial work. Thus there are in Bontoc some seventy artisans, practical shoemakers, horseshoers and the like who owe their training to the fathers.

The girls are instructed by the sisters in domestic sciences, cooking, dressmaking, lacemaking, weaving and the school today numbers thirty-eight of these students. The latest addition to the curriculum is agriculture, and this has had a very marked effect on the prosperity of the neighborhood.—Manila Times.

Pretty Dirty.

Once a year the newsboys of London are given an outing some place on the Thames river where they can swim to their heart's content. As one little boy was getting into the water his little friend said:

"Johnnie, you're pretty dirty!"

"Yes," replied Johnnie, "I missed the train last year.'—Success Magazine.

Treatment.

"Hum, yes," said His Majesty, "I'm languid—out of sorts. Nothing seems to interest me."

"In that case," said the court physician, "I should recommend an imbroglio."

Then the war clouds began to get busy and the diplomats hunted up their umbrellas.

"Now," said the monarch, "I feel like a fighting cock. Good old family physician."—Puck.

An Aggravation.

"I wish," said Mr. Growcher, "that Mr. Jabber wouldn't use that phrase, 'well, to make a long story short.'"

"Why?"

"It invariably serves merely to make the story that many words longer."

Grewsome Revenge.

"You invite a great many people whom you don't really like to accompany you on your private yacht."

"Yes," replied the cynical person. "I enjoy watching them get seasick."

MARRIED WOMAN LEAVES HUSBAND

"Preferring a life of comparative poverty in one or two rooms with Frank Byers, a 22-year old railroad brakeman, to a life in a beautiful home with her husband, Mrs. Harriet C. Kemp, a handsome woman, aged 35, refuses to return to her husband's home in Carnegie. On Saturday a masters report, filed in common pleas court, Pittsburg, recomends a divorce for Charles E. Kemp, the husband, who is superintendent of police for the Panhandle railroad, on charge of infidelty. Mrs. Kemp and Byers are now living in a few rooms at Herminie, this county.

The evidence show that Byers was a boarder at the Kemp home. Kemp, who is about 45 years old, became suspicous of the relations of Byers and his wife, and ordered Byers to leave, Mrs. Kemp said she would go, too, if Byers left.

On December 7, 1910, Byers and Mrs. Kemp left while Kemp was at work. They went to Monessen, where they lived in one room with a family which formerly resided in Carnegie, representing that Mr. and Mrs. Kemp had been divorced and she had married Byers. When the family found this was not true, the couple was ordered out and went to live with another couple. The four lived together in one room. Later Mrs. Kemp and Byers moved to Herminie. Kemp has begged his wife to return but she refuses to leave Byers "—Greensburg Argus.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle to-day, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Child en Injured

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physics Cause Distressing Complaints

You cannot be over careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects.

They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of package, 10 cents, 25 cents and 50 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Monessen only at our store—The Rexall Store. Craig's Drug Store.

Excellent Cough Remedy.

A good old fashioned cough remedy is made of slippery elm, sugar and flaxseed. Soak a gill of whole flaxseed in a half pint of boiling water. In another dish put a cup of broken bits of slippery elm and cover this with boiling water. Let them stand for three hours, then strain them separately through a thin cotton cloth into a pan containing a pound and a half of granulated sugar. Squeeze out all the liquor possible and stir into the sugar until all is melted. Now boil it until it turns to candy. After it has cooked ten minutes add the juice of two lemons. When candied turn out into a well greased pan and mark into squares before it hardens. The children like it.
